

The Alia Dann Swift Bursary Scheme

The Alia Dann Swift Bursary Scheme is intended to provide young professionals and start-ups – who would otherwise be unable to attend – the opportunity to participate in ILMC for the first time.

The scheme is named after Alia Dann Swift, ILMC's long-standing producer who passed away in 2017 after a short illness. Alia was instrumental in both bringing talent into the industry, and supporting and encouraging new ILMC members.

The closing date to apply is Friday 25 January 2019, with successful applicants receiving notification in the first week of February. Successful applicants will receive a full ILMC delegate pass which includes full access to all the conference sessions; lunches and refreshments; and access to all additional non-paying events. Details of all successful applicants will remain confidential.

To apply for a bursary place, you must:

1. Be employed by, or own, a company that has not previously been represented at ILMC.
2. Have not previously attended an ILMC yourself.
3. Have gone through the ILMC nomination process (see details below).

New Delegate Nomination Process

To ensure that new ILMC members are legitimate industry professionals, all applications must be accompanied by nominations from two existing ILMC members.

If you are unsure who can nominate you, click here to see who attended ILMC 30 in 2018. Once you have two referees, please ask them to email confirmation that they are willing to nominate you to registration@ilmc.com.
